September '06 Keating Service School First in New Facility

McCOOK, IL — The September 2006 class of the Keating Service School rolled up their sleeves and got down to the business of learning. On September 15th, twenty service technicians from many different service companies across the country came to Chicagoland to learn hands-on how to diagnose, troubleshoot and repair Keating of Chicago's line of commercial kitchen equipment. The class was the first to take place in Keating's new state-of-the-art headquarters in McCook, Illinois.

Lead by Keating of Chicago's National Service Manager, Michael Mirshak, the class gave the technicians a chance to get hands-on experience with many different kinds of Keating equipment, covering everything from fryers and filters to griddles and pasta cookers. Participants were encouraged to get their hands dirty as Mirshak lead them through disassembling and reassembling equipment.

The Service School is held quarterly at Keating's suburban Chicago headquarters. The next session of Keating Service School is set for December 8th–9th. Space is limited. Interested technicians should contact Keating of Chicago at 1-800-KEATING, or at (708) 246-3000.
